ACTIP’s Industrial Design Team is comprised of skilled professionals who focus on protecting client’s designs. With more than 10 years of experiences in advising and protecting designs from counseling clients with respect to freedom-to-operate opinions to litigating design patent, our attorneys have become experts in the field based on real experiences, both in obtaining industrial design rights and in enforcing. As a specialized business unit of ACTIP Corporation, our industrial design team work collaboratively with other specialized teams within their integrated corporate structure to assure strongly comprehensive protection. To deliver complementary strategies for protecting our client’s products, we communicate actively with our clients to gain a clear understanding of their business goals and legal needs. This approach enables us to devise cutting-edge, creative strategies to protect our client’s designs.

With offices in Vietnam, Laos, Cambodia and Myanmar, and our associate relationships with more than 100 firms throughout the world, we help our clients get effective protection for their product designs abroad. Our Industrial Design Practice team has drafted and prosecuted successful patents for a diverse group of products and technologies ranging from auto and motorcycle and their parts to electronic devices and travelling bags.
